

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A configuration for time control of a transmitting/receiving device in a mobile station has a system clock generator for producing a standard system clock for different time patterns
5 in different mobile radio standards. The standard system clock is supplied to a programmable clock divider which produces an output clock corresponding to a time pattern that can be selected. An event controller carries out the time control of events on the basis of the output clock and of event
10 information.

WHS:nt - L&L-I0177F//8/20/2003